

- The merged total document has been updated. At this stage the individual alphabetical files have not.

- This dictionary was developed as a resource for guiding.

- The material has been obtained from a number of sources. While care has been taken to ensure the material is as accurate as possible, it is inevitable that some errors will occur.

- Where possible entries have been obtained for authoritative sources; government agencies, universities herbariums etc. Where private sources are included material has been cross checked as far as possible.

- Should you find any errors etc, please let me know

- The material listed alphabetically covers plants and details of the Wellington Botanic Garden.

- The material has in some cases been lightly edited

- This is a resource for material for walks etc.

- Parts of interest can be copied into Word or similar word processor and edited as required.